

Health Care

Description

NRC is a global provider of comprehensive environmental response and waste disposal services to healthcare institutions. This includes hospitals and health systems, pharmaceutical manufacturers, research facilities and laboratories. Additionally, NRC is a primary responder for many of the largest healthcare facilities in the United States.

With state-of-the-art resources, our highly trained and experienced team of international environmental experts provide a full spectrum of safe and compliant services. This includes bio-hazard preparedness training as well as routine disposal and decontamination of infectious wastes. Also, we provide complete emergency response coverage to manage the clean-up and decontamination of hazardous or non-hazardous materials.Â

NRC works hand-in-hand with emergency management staff. Thus, we provide expert disaster planning and training for clients who need to be prepared to manage contagions and high hazard biologicals.

Additionally, healthcare companies and institutions look to NRC for decontamination and remediation of facilities undergoing remodeling or repurposing.

Count on NRC as your environmental partner for response, collection, consolidation, storage, and disposal of medical waste, HAZMAT, and bio-hazard materials.Â
